MARKETING (MKT)

Marketing is a dynamic field with many dimensions, including product selection and planning, product distribution, pricing, and promotion. Marketing poses many challenges and yields generous rewards for those meeting these challenges. Marketing operations are carried out domestically and internationally in virtually all business organizations offering a product or service. Many marketing concepts are applicable to the operations of non-profit organizations such as governmental, educational, and health care institutions as well as charitable and political campaigns.

Marketing operations provide the most visible links between the firm or institution and its many publics. Marketing in the end deals with people, people who are constantly changing in their needs, wants and desires; and coupled with these changing tastes is a fiercely competitive environment sustained by all the resources of a rapidly evolving technology. These forces lead to much of the challenge -- to much of the dynamic nature of marketing.

The marketing program at USF prepares students for initial entry and management positions in many areas of marketing with a curriculum that is concerned with:

1. Understanding consumer behavior and the broader environment within which the firm or institution operates;
2. Collecting, analyzing, and using information about customers, competitors, and the environment for managerial decisions;
3. Distributing products effectively and efficiently from producer to user;
4. Advertising and promoting the offerings of the firm or institution effectively;
5. Creatively and effectively managing a sales force selling industrial or consumer goods and services; and
6. Managing retail and wholesale operations including the conceptualization, implementation and evaluation of the buying, merchandising, and control functions.

Each student is strongly encouraged to set up an individualized plan of study with the assistance of a Marketing department faculty adviser. Such counseling can lead to a better definition of career objectives and will result in a plan of study that is consistent with each student's career objectives.

Undergraduate students in the College of Business not majoring in Marketing are encouraged to take selected offerings from the Marketing curriculum to broaden their backgrounds and to prepare for marketing-related positions in business or non-profit organizations.

Recommendations for Students Interested in International Business
To increase the quality and number of initial job opportunities and to enhance longer-term career objectives students are strongly advised to:

• Couple study of international business with a major or minor in one of the functional areas of business. The combination of international business and one of the traditional functional areas of business administration is a very attractive set of qualifications in the marketplace.

• Include an international international internship and/or overseas study experience in the program. With careful planning, a student can complete an area studies course, an international business course and language training in a single term of relatively inexpensive study abroad. More information is available from the Business Undergraduate Programs Office and the Center for International Business.

• Maintain a portfolio of international academic and professional activity. Information on the content of such a portfolio is available from the International Business Programs Office.
